

WEST ADAMS PREPARATORY HIGH SCHOOL

June 27, 2010

To Whom It May Concern:

Recently David Zucker came to all four of the video production classes I teach at West Adams Prep High School. He showed them samples of PSA's and handed out information about how to write and compile a video of a PSA. Subsequently, I asked the students to write and complete a video of a PSA.

I think the actions taken by the students impressed upon them the importance of living life a certain way. They made these announcements about different topics, from drinking and driving to texting and driving, from teen-pregnancy to drug addiction. They looked up statistics and facts online about the consequences of these behaviors and certainly learned a lesson.

The actual PSA had a certain appeal and might have an effect on people watching them, particularly knowing they were made by high school kids.

Yours truly,

Peter Exline
Film Studies